DEANN GARDEN CLUB MEETS

The DeAnn Lilac Garden Club met Tuesday, April 21 in the home of Miss Lillie Clark with Mrs. Wayward Burke, co-hostess. The club president, Mrs. C.B. O'Steen, called the meeting to order, and the secretary, Mrs. Anstey Willett, performed her duties.

From Deut. 11, Mrs. W.W. Oglesby took the devotion, and Mrs. Hollis Samuel offered prayer. Mrs. Trula Coffey reviewed information received at the School of Interior Design held recently in Hope by the Extension Service. A general discussion of the topic was held by the members.

Members brought a One Rose Arrangement, and in the judging Mrs. Oglesby took top honors. Cake, tidbits, coffee and cold drinks were served to 14 members and 4 guests, Mrs. E. T. Auld, Mrs. Clarence Barrang, Mrs. Charlie Smith and Mrs. Grady Clark.

SHOWER FOR MISS SUSAN ROGERS

On Friday night, April 17, Miss Susan Rogers, bride-elect of James Pride of Texarkana, was honored with a miscellaneous shower at the Heritage House. Hostesses were Mesdames Albert Page, G.D. Royston, Jr., Bob Turner, Lucy Mae Williams, Bob Westbrook, and Olin Partell.

Miss Patty Westbrook greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line, where they met the honoree, attired in a pink crepe dress trimmed with lace, Mrs. Herbert Rogers, mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. W.M. Pride, of Texarkana, mother of the future bridegroom. Each planned a pink corsage at her shoulder.

In the dining room the table was overlaid with a white cut-work cloth and centered with a silver epergne holding pink mums and pink tapers. Cake, nuts, coffee and punch were served by Mrs. Edward Mitchell of Texarkana, sister of the groom-elect, and Miss Margie Royston.

Miss Sharon Rogers, sister of the bride-elect, presided over the guest book, where about 30 guests registered. They included Miss Sharon Westmoreland of Texarkana.

Many lovely and useful gifts were received by the honoree, and these were attractively displayed.

CENTERVILLE CLUB MEETS

Centerville Club met with Mrs. E.O. Bright, Mrs. Vernie Gaynes opened the meeting by reading The Thought: "There is Never a Tomorrow Only Today." Get it done now for now soon becomes then" Mrs. E.O. Bright led the group in singing "You Are My Sunshine." The hostess used the 23rd Psalm, Mrs. Orson Harris voiced a prayer. Mrs. Luna Underwood showed an apron, which also made a bonnet, for the eye opener. Mrs. Jim Langston presented the lesson: "Select Your Accessories." Ken Hargis, Social Security representative showed a film on arts and crafts. Also gave a talk on social security, with a question and answer period. Mrs. Vernie Gaynes gave a report on a committee meeting. Mrs. Jim Langston read a poem: "The Best of Everything." The meeting closed by repeating the Home-makers Prayer. Mrs. W.L. Altom was in charge of the games, Cookies, chips, dips and punch were served to 12 members.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gray announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann to Thomas Ray Leonard, son of Mrs. James Anderson and the late Russell Leonard. Wedding plans are incomplete.

SWEET HOME EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS MEET

The Sweet Home Extension Homemakers Club held their regular meeting at the club house Friday, April 17 with Mrs. Emma Avery and Mrs. Eunice Moore as hostesses.

Mrs. Emma Avery had the devotion. Mrs. Myrtle Bright gave the eye opener.

The lesson, "Select Your Accessories," was discussed by the group.

Mrs. Eunice Moore, Health Leader, gave a report on Dental Health.

The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. Lela Jordan.

The roll call was answered by 13 members with, "Why I Selected the Accessories I am using."

A poem "Forever," was read by Mrs. Myrtle Bright.

The meeting adjourned with the Home-makers Prayer.

Environment

Move Lashed by the DAR

WASHINGTON (AP) — While much of the nation joined in cleanup activities marking Earth Day, the Daughters of the American Revolution branded the environmental movement as "distorted and exaggerated."

"This environmental movement is one of the subversive element's last steps," Mrs. Clarence Howard, a delegate from Missouri, said during debate. "They've gone after the military and the police and now they're going after our parks and playgrounds."

The 2,000 delegates to DAR's 79th annual Continental Congress approved a resolution Wednesday singling out "pollution of the mind" as society's real danger and adding:

"The real problem of pollution of our environment is being distorted and exaggerated by emotional declarations and by intensive propaganda."

The resolution called on the federal government to refrain from "unnecessary and harmful control programs which the nation would later regret."

One Michigan delegate wanted to change the word "exaggerated" to "confused."

"There is no confusion," reported Mrs. Samuel M. Neill, Leland, Miss. "It is planned."

"It's unbelievable the far-out people who are involved in the environment movement," said Mrs. Gordon R. Connor, of Wau-sau, Wis. Both Mrs. Neill and Mrs. Connor are members of DAR's resolutions committee.

"It's replacing the anti-Vietnam war movement as the thing to do," Mrs. Connor said.

Mrs. Henry Norsen of Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N.Y., told delegates it was wrong to call the movement exaggerated and emotional. "My husband is a scientist," she said. "I wish he were here to tell you about the problems of the environment. It is a very serious matter."

Coming, Going

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cobb came home Monday from St. Louis, where the Smiths visited Mr. and Mrs. John White and family. The Cobbs went to nearby Mascoutah, Ill., to see Mr. and Mrs. Alton Youman.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam W. Strong are leaving today (Thursday) for Johnson City, Tenn., to spend a few days with Mrs. Calvin Frey.

NLR Seeking to Restore Program

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Executive Advisory Board of the North Little Rock Model Cities program has voted to attempt to get the program reinstated.

The program was recently canceled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Washington officials said the program was discontinued because of apparent disinterest by city officials in the program.

In a meeting Wednesday, the board, which consists of North Little Rock residents, voted to meet with Washington officials. The group voted to ask Floyd H. Hyde, assistant secretary of HUD, to meet with the Board in North Little Rock.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jules Power, who has spent much of his career producing programs that make science understandable and interesting, presents next week what he calls his most difficult show.

Power is completing his eighth year as executive producer of "Discovery" and his production of "How Life Begins" attracted more viewers than any other documentary last season.

"The Unseen World," his new show, brings to view things that are too small or too far away to be seen, or slows or speeds action to give a new dimension to things that normally escape the human eye. "The Unseen World" will be shown at 8 p.m. EST Sunday, May 3, on ABC.

Power said, "This was a much more difficult show than I've ever done before. You're dealing with things that are unseen. You're dealing with things that you can't go out and photograph yourself. For some of our sequences scientists waited up to 15 years trying to get that precise moment."

The show ranges from highly magnified pictures of insects to the stars to stopped motion of a baseball shattering a window.

The script is science writer Isaac Asimov's first for television.

Besides "Discovery," Power produced "Watch Mr. Wizard" and did a local children's show in Chicago on which Bob Keeshan, who is now Captain Kangaroo, made his debut. He produced a children's series for the Canadian CTV network before joining ABC News.

"If you're doing a science-oriented show you have to consider two criteria," he said. "First, you've got to be appealing to the person who normally doesn't

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper. EVERY COUPLE DESERVES TO BE ALONE

Dear Helen: I am a young wife expecting her first child. My husband doesn't make much, but I think it's enough so we could afford our own place.

Instead, we live with his folks. They have two children still in school and my mother-in-law care about public affairs on television.

"The trend is to direct these shows to people who normally like that kind of thing. But you want the guy who might watch a basketball game. So there has to be an eye opener for him in the very beginning."

"Second," Power said, "you must create a show children will watch. If you're going to do a show about the world around you, create it for people who are developing attitudes about life."

Power noted that Asimov's science books are very popular with junior and senior high school pupils.

The show's point of view is that everyone and everything is an interrelated part of the universe, that to change one thing affects something else.

"We're not doing an ecology show," he said, "but I think you can't help it. At the end of the show we say, why look at these things? Because it gives you an idea of the sum total. So it's an ecology show without being an ecology show."

babysits her grandson, so it's a mad house. We have no privacy. People walk right into our bedroom. No one knocks. My father-in-law is disabled and home all the time. I constantly hear about how hard up they are, and the blame somehow is put on us. An older sister-in-law says she was treated the same way until they moved away.

Helen, I'm practical and sensible, I could manage a budget. My husband can't see it my way. He's all for saving money, while I'm losing my mind. Help! —NO PRIVACY.

Dear N.P.: I'd suggest you go apartment-hunting, find a place that fits your husband's salary, work up a budget, and then present the idea to him. Sometimes it takes decisive action to make a man move.—H.

Dear Helen: I recently started wearing contact lenses. So what happens? The kids stare and ask questions. Did I break my glasses? How come I switched to contacts? I'm sure they're whispering about me, like "Doesn't she think she's something!" Or, "She's just trying to look cute."

I got sick of pushing up my old glasses, and I thought contacts would make a big change for the better, but now I feel that everybody is staring and talking. I'm even more self-conscious than I was before. I've always been shy.

Why is it when you try to improve yourself, you end up feeling worse?—MISS CONTACTED

Dear Miss C.: . . . Because you're so tied up by shyness that you're sure "everyone stares and whispers." For Heaven's sake, Honey, if people ask about your contacts it's because they're interested, not nosy. They'd like to give you compliments but your self-contedness turns them off.

Now that you have a new look, open up and discuss it. Contact lenses like wigs and changes of hair color, are good conversation starters nowadays.—H.

Dear Helen: Many of my friends are on drugs and I can't stand it because it's like watching them die. They say:

Drugs are fun, exciting, they make things seem beautiful.

Drugs make you feel happy. Drugs can't hurt you.

They're the best things since booze.

They make you feel like you can do anything, and bring out the "real you."

Drugs make the user look cool. They psych you out.

Whoever thinks these statements are true is a fool. My only words are:

Drugs are what make you cry when you see your friends using them.

I should know. My boy friend was killed by them!—T.S.A.

Player Opens Defense of Champ Title

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP)—South African Gary Player opened defense of his Tournament of Champions crown today with a game going so good he can't decide whether to go home or not.

"I'm just playing so good right now," Player said before his first round in the $150,000 event. "I just don't know what to do."

"I don't want to quit when I'm playing like this. But I talk to my kids on the phone and I get home-sick and I want to go home."

"I just don't know what to do," Player, winner of one title and more than $61,000 in just six weeks on the American pro golf tour this year, played alone in a practice round Wednesday. He was accompanied by a small gallery and a handful of plain-clothes police.

Gary has been the focus of intense security precautions this year because of rumored threats concerning his country's racial policies.

Player steadfastly has refused to comment on the situation but obviously is under a strain.

He won the Greater Greensboro Open two weeks ago, missed by a single stroke in the Masters and was in strong contention in last week's Greater New Orleans Open.

"I'm not committed at Dallas (the next stop on the tour)," he said, "but it's a definite possibility."

"And the sponsors from Houston call me and say Arnold (Palmer) and Jack (Nicklaus) aren't going to be playing there and couldn't I please come?"

"Well, I feel like I have a certain responsibility to these people but I do want to go home. So, I'm just playing it one week at a time."

"I won't make a decision until Sunday."

Player was one of the favorites in the elite field of 31 chasing the $30,000 first prize in this prestige-laden event.

Other top contenders include Masters champion Billy Casper and Palmer and Nicklaus, both of whom are back from a week's rest.

Not Surprised at Fine for U.S. Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Tennis moguls in this country weren't greatly surprised or overly concerned by the International Lawn Tennis Federation's $2,500 fine of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association for breaches of rules at tournaments in Boston and Philadelphia.

The fine was announced in London Wednesday by Basil Reay, ILTF secretary, following an ILTF management committee meeting in Paris.

"The fine comes as no surprise," said a spokesman at the USLTA office here, Alastair Martin, USLTA president, "wasn't available for comment."

The USLTA spokesman said the organization had learned of the action prior to Reay's London announcement.

The ILTF announcement said it was understood that the USLTA was taking disciplinary action against the promoters of the Boston and Philadelphia events, which were staged contrary to the rules. The USLTA was fined $2,000 for the Boston tourney and $500 for the Philadelphia event.

In Seattle, Bob Caldwell, a USLTA vice president who attended the Paris meeting, said: "It was a very fair fine in my opinion because I believe in following the rules and the two tournaments defied the ILTF."

Hogs Not to Show Anything New in Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday the Razorbacks would not show anything new in Saturday's Red-White game at Little Rock. "We won't show anything we didn't show last fall," he said. "We won't show anything we've added this spring. Of course, we haven't added that much anyway."

The team will have a normal "learning" day today and will not practice Friday.

Colonels in Victory Over the Nets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Gene Rhodes, coach of the Kentucky Colonels, says he played a game of mental darts before his team's fourth playoff game in the American Basketball Association with the New York Nets.

"I couldn't make up my mind whether to go with Sam Smith or George Tinsley at one of the starting forward spots," Rhodes related. "I finally came up with Smith and he sure made me look good."

The Colonels beat the Nets 128-101 Wednesday night and evened the Eastern Division semifinal best-of-7 series at 2-2. In the other East semi, Indiana, now leading 3-0, beat Carolina 115-106.

Washington evened its Western Division series with Denver 2-2 by beating the Rockets 131-114 while Los Angeles turned back Dallas 144-138 to also square their West semifinals at two games apiece.

The 6-foot-7 Smith, who had missed Kentucky's final two regular season games after being jabbed in the eye, wound up with 28 points and 12 rebounds. He was 12-for-16 from the floor.

With Darel Carrier scoring 29 points and Louie Dampier 26, the 28 by Smith pushed the Colonels past New York early and the Nets wound up suffering their worst defeat of the year. Levern Tart's 21 points led the Nets.

Washington didn't stop Denver's Spencer Haywood, the ABA Rookie of the Year, but his 41 points weren't enough to overcome the 30 each by Rick Barry and Mike Barrett of the Caps.

Indiana had to come from behind in the final quarter to defeat Carolina, which had a 13-point cushion at one point. The rebounding of Mel Daniels in the fourth quarter was the key factor for Indiana, led in scoring by John Barnhill with 28. High for Carolina was Bob Verga with 24.

Rookie Mack Calvin collected a career-high 44 points and contributed 16 assists and George Stone scored 35 points, 22 in the second period to trigger Los Angeles' victory over Dallas.

The Stars built a 24-point lead before the Chaparrals rallied but were unable to get any closer than six points. John Beasley kept the Chaps in contention with 28 points.

Mincher Hits Decisive Blow Again

Don Mincher's aim was the same—a bit shorter to be sure—but the outcome was the same—another victory for the Oakland A's.

For the second night in a row Mincher cracked the decisive blow as the A's crept to the .500 mark with a 2-1 triumph over Kansas City Wednesday night.

Mincher capped a two-run eighth-inning rally with a sacrifice fly to center field—about 300 feet which scored Felipe Alou with the clincher and secured the victory for Al Downing, who tossed a three-hitter.

In other AL contests, Washington struggled 18 innings before downing New York 2-1. Minnesota topped Chicago 3-1 in a five-inning rain-shortened game. Detroit blanked Cleveland 5-0. Boston trimmed Baltimore 5-2 and California stopped Milwaukee 3-1.

Mincher, the big first baseman obtained from Seattle-Milwaukee over the winter, had drilled a two-run ninth-inning homer 420-feet over the center field fence Tuesday night in the A's 4-3 triumph over the Brewers.

Wednesday's ball didn't go quite as far but the result was the same as far as the A's were concerned.

With Oakland trailing 1-0, Dave Duncan opened the rally with a single. Downing sacrificed and Felipe Alou and Rick Monday followed with hits to load the bases.

Bob Johnson relieved loser Wally Bunker on the mound and promptly fired a wild pitch, tying the game. After a walk, reloading the bases, Ken Wright reloaded Johnson to face Mincher.

The 6-foot-3, 240-pounder skied to Amos Otis in center and Alou romped home with the winner.

Ed Kirkpatrick slammed a homer for the Royals.

Mike Epstein also put an end to the 4-hour and 40-minute marathon at Washington with a sacrifice fly after Ed Stroud opened the inning with a walk and moved to third on Hank Allen's one-out single.

The Yankees had tied the game at 1-1 in the ninth on Bobby Murcer's homer. Washington had scored in the sixth on Allen's run-scoring single.

Senators' starter Joe Coleman went 9 1-3 innings, allowing only two hits, both to Murcer. The victory went to reliever Joe Grzenda, who allowed one single in three innings.

The Twins swept to their fourth consecutive victory on a two-run homer by Cesar Tovar in the fifth inning, breaking a 1-1 tie.

After Tovar's 367-foot blast, the umpires held the game up for 70 minutes before calling it. Tony Oliva drove in Minnesota's first run in the first inning with a single. Carlos May moved it for the White Sox in the fourth with a run-scoring double.

Mickey Lolich scattered five hits and became the major league's first four-game winner as the Tigers swept to their seventh straight triumph.

Lolich, 4-1, struck out seven in beating Sam McDowell, 2-2. Jim Northrup slammed a two-run homer in the sixth while Al Kaline, Willie Horton and Cesar Gutierrez drove in the other Detroit runs.

Carl Yastrzemski's seventh-inning single snapped a 2-2 tie as the Red Sox went on to beat Dave McNally. It was McNally's first loss of the season after three victories.

The Orioles scored their runs in the first inning off Jim Lonborg on a sacrifice fly by Boog Powell and Paul Blair's single. The Sox tied it in the third on doubles by Lonborg and Mike Andrews and Reggie Smith's single.

Boston added two insurance runs in the eighth on Luis Alvarado's RBI double and a single by Jerry Moses.

Aurelio Rodriguez singled home the winning run and Tom Egan added an insurance run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning as the Angels downed the Brewers. It was Milwaukee's seventh consecutive loss.

Packers Sign 4 Free Agents

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers of the National Football League announced Wednesday the signing of four free agents.

Two are from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee—Terry Fredenburg, a wide receiver, and Mike O'Hagan, a kicking specialist.

The others are kicking specialist Gary Stivers of Boise, Idaho, State, and John Christiansen, a center.

Seaver Hurls Way Into Record Books

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
They gave Tom Seaver the 1959 Cy Young award before Wednesday's game and then the wunderkind ace of the New York Mets' pitching staff went out and showed just how much he deserved it.

Seaver pitched his way into baseball's record book, striking out 19 batters including the last 10 in a row and two-hit San Diego 2-1 in an expert display of pitching prowess.

The Young Award, of course, goes to the top pitcher in each league but if you ask the Padres today, they'll tell you that Seaver looked like the best pitcher in all of baseball to them.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Chicago trimmed St. Louis 7-3, Philadelphia dropped San Francisco 6-1, Pittsburgh took Houston 6-1 and Los Angeles ripped Montreal 9-2. Atlanta and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

In the American League, Minnesota tripped Chicago 3-1, Boston belted Baltimore 5-2, Detroit shut out Cleveland 5-0, Washington outlasted New York 2-1 in 18 innings, Oakland nipped Kansas City 2-1 and California whipped Milwaukee 3-1.

Seaver was simply superb. He used just 136 pitches to dispatch the Padres and matched the record for strikeouts in a single game of 19 set by Steve Carlton against the Mets last September.

He also wiped out the old record for consecutive strikeouts of eight shared by four different pitchers. One of those four was Johnny Podres, who watched Seaver's performance.

"Fantastic, outstanding," marvelled Podres, now the Padres' minor league pitching coach. "The amazing thing was that as hard as he was throwing the ball, he was still pitching to spots."

"He was like a machine," said Met first baseman Ed Kranepool, "whump, whump, whump."

"When he did throw a breaking ball," said Al Ferrara, who tagged Seaver for an early homer and then became the 19th and final strikeout victim in the ninth inning, "it was always on the outside corner."

It was the 13th consecutive regular season victory for Seaver over two seasons, 10 of them coming in his 25-7 mark last year which earned him the Young Award, and three this term.

There were other well-pitched games in the NL but nothing like Seaver's.

Pittsburgh's Steve Blass limited Houston to three hits and the Pirates rapped the Astros with Roberto Clemente and Manny Sanguillen collecting three safeties apiece. Bill Mazeroski singled across one of the Pirates runs, collecting the 800th RBI of his career.

Don Sutton scattered five Montreal hits and the Dodgers pounded the Expos with a 14-hit attack.

The middle of the Dodger batting order—Andy Kosco, Willie Crawford and Wes Parker—did most of the damage, collecting half of LA's hits between them. Crawford scored three runs.

Chicago beat St. Louis for its seventh straight victory with Don Kessinger's homer and two singles pacing the Cubs' attack. Ferguson Jenkins was jolted by homers by Leron Lee and Joe Torre but staggered through to win his first game of the season.

Johnny Briggs rapped a three-run homer as the Phillies beat San Francisco. Dick Selma shut off a Giant rally in the seventh and saved the victory for Woody Fryman.

one run in Pittsburgh's 6-1 victory over Houston.

Connie Day Feels She Will Win

By KEN ALYTA

Associated Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Connie Day, the long hitter from Cleveland, Tenn., never has won the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament, but she has a feeling that this may be her year.

Her opponent in today's 18-hole semifinals was Hollis Stacey, the 16 year old medalist from Savannah, Ga. The other match paired defending champion and five-time winner Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Mrs. Alice Dye of Delray Beach, Fla., the 1968 champion.

Each was a double winner Wednesday.

Connie explained her optimism this way: "I'm playing with more confidence now because I have been practicing more. As a result my trap shots and putting have improved."

She has had trouble in the past with the many traps dotting the No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club, playing 5,926 yards from front tees. Connie led from the outset in both matches Wednesday.

She eliminated Mrs. Phillip Cudone of Myrtle Beach, S.C. 3 and 2, then turned back Debra Rhodes, Odessa Junior College student from North Wilkesboro, N.C., 4 and 2.

Smiling-swinging Miss Stacey, showing poise and polish that belie her tender age, won from two tournament-toughened opponents.

First the Georgia schoolgirl turned back Curtis Cup veteran Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., 2 and 1. Tish was 2 up through six holes, then three-putted to lose the four holes and open the gates for the teen-ager.

The medalist followed with a 2 up victory in the afternoon over Martha Wilkinson, 21 year old former national collegiate champion from Anaheim, Calif.

Miss McIntire pulled out a pair of tough 1 up victories over a couple of girls named Lancy and Nancy.

Barbara shot par golf to edge New York State champion Lancy Smith of Snyder, N. Y., then she eased by Mrs. Nancy Roth Syme of Black Forest, Colo., by winning the last two holes. Miss McIntire was one over par for the two matches.

Mrs. Dye nine times champion of Indiana, fired 11 birdies at two dazzled opponents to gain her place in the semifinals. After scoring a 4 and 3 victory over Claudia Mayhew of Indianapolis she ousted Carol Semple of Sewickley, Pa., 3 and 1.

Home runs by Terry DeWald and Chico Diaz backed up the seven - hit pitching of Allen Clements to give Memphis a 7-2 Texas League victory over Amarillo Wednesday night.

Thinks Knicks Have Home Court Edge

By LARRY EIDRIDGE

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP)—Red Auerbach, still not used to being just a spectator for the National Basketball Association playoffs, is making no predictions for the New York Knicks-Los Angeles Lakers final series opening Friday night in New York's Madison Square Garden.

"I'm not that smart," the general manager of the once-mighty Boston Celtics said Wednesday when asked for a forecast. But he did offer a few items by way of analysis.

"Both teams at this point have more or less shaken off the playoff jitters and early mistakes which often can cost the whole ball of wax," he said. "They're rolling now, and they can taste the potential fruits of victory."

"The only edge now is that the Knicks have the home court advantage. That hasn't been that fruitful so far, but nevertheless it is an advantage."

Auerbach discounted the theory that the Lakers, who lost to his Celtics in the finals six times in the last nine years, have an advantage because of all that prior experience.

"If this were the first round, I'd say yes," he explained. "But that advantage is gone now. The Knicks played seven playoff games against Baltimore and five against Milwaukee. That's 12 playoff games already. That's enough experience."

Auerbach said the freshness of Laker star Bill Chamberlain, who returned to action in the final week of the regular season after sitting out almost the entire campaign recovering from knee surgery,

REV. Q. EDWARDS

"If they can go there for Uncle Sam, I can go there for Jesus Christ", is the statement of the Rev. Quentin Edwards who has visited Vietnam for the fourth time, singing and preaching the Gospel for the servicemen.

Rev. Edwards is an ordained minister with the Assemblies of God and has just returned from his ninth missionary and evangelistic tour preaching to crowds up to sixty thousand in over forty nations. He is a song writer and recording artist. Several of his albums are heard regularly on his radio programs in 26 states and 11 foreign countries.

At the First Assembly of God Church, 322 N. Main, Rev. Edwards will begin a series of revival services. Beginning April 26th and continuing nightly at 7:30 except Saturday. The pastor, Rev. C.C. Trullit, invites the public to attend these services. One night the evangelist will show full color films of his missionary trips and will tell of his visit inside Russia.

"I feel," Pastor Trullit states, "we are offering to this community the opportunity to hear one of America's outstanding Gospel singers and preachers."

Tennis Classic Is Underway in Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Officials of the Dallas Morning News Tennis Classic wondered what else could go wrong today as they started the third day of the tournament with the top seeds in both singles and doubles eliminated.

Rod Laver of Australia, seeded first in singles, had to withdraw in the midst of his first round match with Cliff Drysdale of South Africa Wednesday.

Laver sprained an ankle while charging the net. He was leading in games 4-0 in the first set when the accident occurred, adding to a growing list of tournament injuries.

Tom Okker withdrew before the first round because of a back injury. Butch Buchholz was forced to withdraw earlier Wednesday with a torn muscle.

The top-seeded doubles team of John Newcombe and Tony Roche was upset in its first round match.

Third-seeded Roche of Australia rallied to defeat Torben Ullrich of South Africa.

Money Main Thing About Big Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The main thing the Kentucky Derby means to neighbors of Churchill Downs is M-O-N-E-Y.

The annual racing classic draws more than 100,000 persons to the track, and by post time May 2 neighboring yards will be packed with autos parked for up to $10 each.

Parking cars "gives all these kids a little extra money," says M.S. John Gipson, whose six youngsters help entice Derbygoers to their yard.

"We made almost $100 one year," Mrs. Gipson said.

And more money comes from the sale of lemonade for 25 cents a glass on the sidewalk out front, and ice water "for what it's worth," says her son John, 15, who pointed out that soaring early May temperatures make for a thirsty crowd.

When their front and back yards are packed "so no one can get in or out," the Gipsons squeeze motorcycles in between cars "and even on the front porch" at lower rates.

Parking at most houses on Longfield Avenue, where the Gipsons live, ranges from $2 to $5, often depending on the mood of the driver.

Down the block, at the Veterans of Foreign Wars lot, the tariff jumps to $10 and the same holds true for most houses on Central Avenue directly behind the clubhouse.

Across from the entrance to the track's main parking lot, which charges $1 per car on Derby Day, lives Donald McKinney and his family of four.

McKinney made $95 last year when he parked 18 cars in his narrow yard.

He explained that the Churchill Downs lot usually fills up by mid-morning, putting a premium on nearby parking space.

McKinney, who noted that "about anything goes here on Derby Day," pointed to another potential profit-making venture.

"You could bootleg all around here and make money," he said.

State law prohibits race fans from bringing their own liquor and beer into the track, which sells both beverages.

Last year, said McKinney, "I could have made a killing because the track vendors ran out of the traditional mint juleps."

Drunk or sober, however, Mrs. Gipson said most of her customers "are just as nice a bunch of people you'd ever want to meet."

None of those interviewed had any major complaints about the annual extravaganza, and most seemed to accept the traffic jam that develops each year in front of their homes "as a fact of life."

And the kids always wish their patrons good luck. "If they've won a lot," one smiling youngster said, "when they come back to get their cars they give you a g-o-o-d tip."

Training at Technical School

All-Rookie Pro Cage Team Selected

NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Alcindor, the National Basketball Association's Rookie of the Year, was the only unanimous selection to the All-Rookie team announced today.

Alcindor, the dominating 7-foot-2 Milwaukee center, was selected by all of the 14 NBA coaches in the balloting, with teammate Bob Dandridge next with 12 votes.

Jo Jo White of Boston, Dick Garrett of Los Angeles and Mike Davis of Baltimore completed the team, White with eight votes and Garrett and Davis with seven each.

A&P Sales Mgr.

R.L. THOMPSON

Robert L. Thompson has been selected to fill the position of Sales Manager for the Dallas Division of A&P.

Mr. Thompson has been a career employee of A&P. In fact, he was "born into" the company. His father and mother were both A&P employees. Thompson worked in the store his father managed until he was old enough to be put on the payroll. His official starting date with the company was 1940, and except for a brief hiatus in the Navy, his career with A&P has spanned thirty years.

Mr. Thompson has experience in virtually every phase of supermarket operations, having been involved in store management, personnel, purchasing, trucking, advertising and sales aspects of the Tea Company. He served for many years as the Tea & Coffee Division Representative in the 5-state area served by the Dallas office.

One of the most unusual aspects of Mr. Thompson's career is the fact that he has never been transferred outside the Dallas area. Even while Coffee Representative, Dallas was his home base.

It is not often that an individual can advance from part-time employee to an executive position in a national company, without relocation. "I guess I was fortunate that Dallas was a headquarters city for the company," he comments.

There are names for almost every type of winning play, while bad plays in general are nameless. It is just as well. Who would like to be immortalized by having the play of trumping your partner's ace named after him?

Today's play is known among the old-time bridge experts as the "No-better-place-for-it" play. In one form or another, it is fairly common and, while not always a loser, it's very seldom a winner.

This hand was played in a high-stakes rubber bridge game at the Cavendish Club almost 40 years ago and the player who chucked away game and rubber gave the play its name right then and there.

East started the bidding off with three hearts and South made the fairly conservative call of three spades. North raised to game and West opened his singleton.

East took the ace and king of hearts and continued with the queen. South wasn't at all happy about this. In fact, he had quietly decided that things were taking a nasty turn for the worse. He could find nothing better to do than to ruff with his queen of trumps. All West had to do was to discard, but West wasn't going to let that queen get away. He planked down his king, remarking, "No better place for it," and the play was named.

That was the third trick for the defense, but South wrapped up the rest of the tricks in no seconds flat. If West had just let that trick go, he would have been rewarded with two tricks later on but, then, the play would have no name.

What do you do now?

A—Pass. Your partner doesn't like your suits and obviously has a good diamond suit of at least five cards. Let him play for a part-score that he should make.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three diamonds, your partner has gone to three spades over your three clubs. What do you do now?

Bruins Back Home in Hockey Play

By BEN THOMAS

Associated Press Sports Writer

Webster may spell difference d-i-f-f-e-r-e-n-c-e but in the 1970 Stanley Cup playoffs of the National Hockey League it's spelled O-r-r.

Just ask Billy Reay, the Chicago Black Hawk coach.

Mr. Difference, better known as Bobby Orr, and the Bruins are back home tonight on the Boston Garden ice for the third game in the best-of-7 series with Chicago for the East Division playoff crown. The Bruins beat the Hawks decisively in the first two games at Chicago.

Pittsburgh didn't find St. Louis the considerate host, however, and the Penguins, also home tonight for the first time in the series, trail the Blues 2-0 in the West Division playoffs.

Although Reay boasts some stars of his own in Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull, the Chicago coach says Orr "would spell the difference between most hockey clubs, especially in these last two games."

Reay's opposite number with the Bruins, Harry Sinden, isn't about to relax just because his team is home for the games tonight and Sunday that could decide the series.

"The thing that has to be done is to stop Stan Mikita and Bobby Hull," says Sinden. "We've been able to do it in two games but 'I'm not counting on anything. Those guys are too explosive. There's nothing easy ahead of us."

Boston's Phil Esposito, needing two more goals to equal a Stanley Cup record, had some kind words for his kid brother, rookie Chicago netminder Tony Esposito, who has let 10 Bruins goals past him in two games.

"I know it doesn't sound right for me backing him and knocking his defense, but they didn't have it," said Phil. "They haven't had it, if it weren't for him, they wouldn't have finished first. Their defense just hasn't been that good."

Pittsburgh's defensive tactics against St. Louis didn't work on the Blues' ice and Penguin Coach Red Kelly wants his players to shoot more at home.

"I've never known the puck to go in the net yet if you don't shoot it," said Kelly after his team took only 24 shots on goal Tuesday night and lost 4-1.

St. Louis' Scotty Bowman figures the Penguins have to win both games in Pittsburgh to get back in the running. "Otherwise, we've got the West sewed up again."

St. Louis has represented the West in both Stanley Cup championship series since the NHL expanded. And the Blues lost eight straight times in a pair of best-of-7 series.

Boston's Esposito is the leading playoff scorer to date with 14 points, followed by Orr and St. Louis' Ab McDonald with 13 each, and Hull and St. Louis' Phil Goyette with 11 apiece.

Esposito's 10 goals leads in that category and Orr is second with eight, followed by McDonald with five and Hull with three. McDonald, Hull and Goyette share the assist lead with eight each, trailed by Boston's Ken Hodge and John Bucyk with seven apiece.

Group's Goal Is to Beat Constitution

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Richard B. McCulloch, a Forrest City lawyer, heads a committee which has set a goal of bringing about the defeat of the proposed new state constitution in November.

"Nobody has told us any that convinces us that this new proposal is better than the old one," McCulloch explained in an interview.

The new proposal was drafted by a Constitutional Convention, the first one in the state in 50 years, to replace the constitution that was adopted in 1874.

The 1874 Constitution will be supplanted if the voters approve such a move in the general election in November.

McCulloch is chairman of a group called the Arkansas Committee for Constitutional Government, a loosely organized group that banded together about 10 years ago "over some issues I now don't even recall."

"The committee was dormant for several years," McCulloch said, "but we revived it for this question over the constitution."

The committee has about 35 members, whom McCulloch says he telephoned while in the process of rejuvenating the group. The membership is scattered through East Arkansas from the Helena area to Jonesboro, he said.

McCulloch declined to identify other committee members, saying he had not requested their permission to do so.

The group has run a newspaper advertisement as its "opening round" in the fight against the new proposal.

The advertisement, in the Forrest City Times-Herald, said no document is bad merely because it is old, and no document is good merely because it is new.

"The proponents of the new constitution say it will 'streamline' our government," said the ad. "Let's be sure it does not 'streamline' us out of some of our fundamental rights."

The committee's statement also said that the new constitution would make it easier for the legislature and some other governmental agencies to raise taxes. "We don't like this," the ad said.

The final point made in the advertisement was that the constitution would combine the offices of secretary of state and lieutenant governor and would combine the offices of state treasurer and auditor.

"The proposed constitution takes away from the people the right to elect certain officials," McCulloch said. "We feel that these offices should be kept separate, so that too much power will not be concentrated into one office."

"This is particularly true where money matters are involved," he said.

A practicing attorney for 23 years, McCulloch was on the state Public Service Commission in the late 1940s.

He characterized the committee members as individuals who "think more or less conservatively and are cautious about things."

More Democrats May Jump, Governor Hints

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller hinted Wednesday that state Rep. Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock may not be the only prominent Democrat to join the Republican party.

Rockefeller, asked at a news conference whether he was encouraging other prominent Democrats to follow Cockrill's example, said, "There might be some other announcements."

He refused to elaborate, however, saying he was not at liberty to discuss private conversations he had had with the Democrats.

Cockrill, Majority leader of the House in the 1969 General Assembly, announced last week that he was defecting to the GOP and that he would run for either governor or lieutenant governor.

Rockefeller, in his first public comment on Cockrill's action, said he was greatly pleased by the representative's decision. The governor added that Cockrill's party switch would not affect his own decision about whether to run for a third term.

The governor said he did not think there had been any determination of what office Cockrill had told him he would like to run for office. Rockefeller

Bill Wells to Run for Some Office

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bill Wells of Hermitage, who lost the lieutenant governor's race by less than 7,200 votes in 1968, said Wednesday he would run for governor or lieutenant governor this year.

Wells said in an interview he was "leaning toward" running for the top spot, but would not make a final decision until he completes a series of trips around the state.

Wells, 39, also predicted that Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller would not seek a third term.

Wells said the prediction that Rockefeller would not run again was coupled with the belief that Rep. Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock would receive a "tacit endorsement" from the governor.

Cockrill, who had been the House Majority leader, switched from the Democratic party to the GOP last week.

Cockrill said at that time that he would run for either governor or lieutenant governor unless Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Maurice Britt each sought third terms.

Rep. George Nowotny Jr. of Fort Smith has announced as a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination but has left the door open for withdrawal.

"I think I could beat either Mr. Nowotny or Mr. Cockrill," Wells said. "I think Nowotny would be a better candidate, but Cockrill will have the Rockefeller effect."

He said Cockrill had displayed "instability" by switching parties and that a "stable man is what the people of Arkansas want for governor."

Wells said his tours had already taken him to about one-third of the state's 75 counties and that reports of support he has received so far would indicate that this is the year for him to seek the governorship.

He was in Little Rock on one of his tours and making arrangements for an advertising agency to represent him in the race for whichever office he decides to seek.

ler said he and Cockrill had discussed several positions the representative might seek.

Rockefeller said he would have a "strong interest" in who was lieutenant governor but said it could not be categorically stated that Cockrill would be his running mate in this year's election. The governor said the GOP would have "some primaries" and indicate that he would support Cockrill if the representative ran for lieutenant governor and had primary opposition.

On another subject, Rockefeller said he would ask state Revenue Commissioner Bob Scott to explain to any employee that the employee should feel free to testify before the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee should he wish to do so.

The governor said, however, he would not interfere if an employee decided not to testify in the committee's investigation of alleged expense account irregularities in the department.

The Joint Auditing Committee has written Rockefeller asking him to request that seven employees testify at the committee's meeting next month.

"Every individual has a right to volunteer or not—that is the reason for the subpoena power," the governor said.

Government Controls in Trinidad

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

Associated Press Writer

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — The government of Trinidad appeared today to have gained the upper hand over a few score army mutineers and Black Power rioters. Three persons have been reported killed in the disorders.

Six U.S. Navy ships were expected to evacuate American tourists and residents if necessary, and the U.S. government flew in small arms requested by the island government. But for the moment, at least, the government seemed to have the situation under control.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew, part of a state of emergency declared Tuesday by Prime Minister Eric Williams, was relaxed in rural areas Wednesday but was continued on a day-to-day basis in Port of Spain. Only persons with police passes were allowed outside Wednesday night.

Most shops were boarded up and closed early. By late afternoon, the downtown section was almost deserted.

There were few guests in the Trinidad Hilton, one of the main tourist hotels. The airport was crowded with foreigners awaiting flights out of the country.

The U.S. Embassy said the dispatch of the American ships to Trinidad waters was a precautionary step and that no evacuation of Americans was imminent. Embassy officials said they were advising the 3,000 Americans on the island to avoid public places, stay indoors and obey the state of emergency regulations.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler emphasized to newsmen in Washington that no American troop landing was planned. "We have no intention of involving ourselves in the internal affairs of Trinidad," he said.

There were reports that British Commonwealth troops from Jamaica and Guyana had landed on Trinidad, but Jamaica and Guyana denied them.

However, the two British frigates assigned to the Caribbean anchored off Port of Spain to evacuate British nationals if necessary.

Unrest has been increasing in Trinidad, sparked by the Black Power movement's demand that the black government end white domination of the economy, a holdover from the days of British colonialism. The arrest of 14 Black Power leaders Tuesday brought crowds into the streets, throwing rocks, smashing store windows, setting fires and looting. The police went into action and two persons were killed.

The army said about 50 died sympathetic with the Black Power movement mutinied at the Teton Bay base and seized some automatic weapons. One private was killed and three soldiers were wounded in a shootout with coast guardsmen stationed on the base.

May 1 Marks Opening of Bike Month

"There are probably more kids riding bikes on roads today than ever before, and our responsibility as adults, parents or interested citizens is to see to it that they continue to ride in safety," Chief Alvin Willis, of the Hope Police Department said May 1 marks opening of the 14th Annual American Bike Month.

"Latest available statistics indicate there are more than 44 million bicycles being ridden by over 60 million people," the Chief continued, "and as the summer season approaches, more and more youngsters will be using them for fun, transportation and recreation. Motorists must share the road with them intelligently and courteously, and parents must make sure that they and their children live up to their own responsibilities."

Chief Willis advised parents to see to it that their youngsters' bicycles are thoroughly inspected by a knowledgeable mechanic, and noted that many bicycle retailers were offering free bike inspections throughout the month of May, which is celebrated as American Bike Month. Brakes, lights, reflectors, chains, spokes, tires, gearings and other vital parts should be checked, adjusted and repaired, he said.

"Today's youngster leads an active life," Chief Willis said, "and uses his bike for practically everything. Obviously, the bike takes a lot of abuse. That's why a thorough preventive maintenance inspection is a good idea."

The veteran police official went on to say that parents have the additional responsibility of making sure their children know and observe safe cycling procedures.

"What many people don't realize," he said, "is that a bicycle is considered a vehicle, the same as an automobile, and that most of the same rules of vehicular traffic apply to bikes. Therefore, such regulations as keeping to the right and observing stop signs, red lights and one-way streets apply to bicyclists as well as motorists."

"The bicyclist should consider himself a bicycle driver, driving a vehicle in and with the stream of traffic. It is his responsibility to drive safely."

Many community groups such as Jaycees, Kiwanis, Optimists Lions Club, and veterans organizations cooperate with the bicycle industry in celebrating American Bike Month by conducting community-wide bicycle safety programs, inspections, rodeos, field days and races.

"These programs," Chief Willis said, "deserve our complete cooperation and support. Riding a bicycle is part of the life pattern of American children. We should see to it that it remains a safe, pleasurable and healthy activity."

To help instruct their children in safe bicycling techniques, Chief Willis passed along the following safe bike driving code, received from the Bicycle Institute of America.

1. Obey all traffic regulations, lights, stop signs, one-way streets.

2. Keep right, Ride single file. Don't weave in and out, swerve, race or stunt in traffic. Never hitch a ride on a truck or other vehicle.

3. For night riding, be sure to have a white light in front and a red light or state-approved reflector in the rear. Have a clear-sounding horn or bell to warn others of your approach.

4. Slow down at all intersections, look both ways, then proceed with caution.

5. Always give pedestrians the right of way.

6. Watch out for cars pulling into traffic or for doors opening.

7. Don't carry passengers or packages that interfere with your vision or control.

8. Always use proper hand signals for stopping and turning.

Mansfield Wants Troop Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield may escalate his campaign for a substantial reduction of American troops in Europe, seeking to impose a money or manpower ceiling if his efforts at persuasion fail.

"I want more than adoption of a resolution," Mansfield said in an interview. "I want action, either action by the administration or action by the Senate."

Mansfield already has proposed a resolution urging "a substantial reduction of U.S. forces permanently stationed in Europe." Not binding on the administration, it would simply express the Senate's opinion.

With 51 cosponsors and with the solid backing of the Democratic leadership, Mansfield said the resolution clearly would be adopted.

But he has not pressed for action on the measure, now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Mansfield would not say when he might seek action, either in the committee or in the Senate itself.

But other Democratic sources said the resolution is more valuable as a tool for persuasion if it is awaiting action, then were it to be quickly adopted.

The administration has made clear its opposition to troop cuts now, promising only to reconsider the question in mid-1971.

It was learned, however, Mansfield is considering a head-on approach to the troop cut issue when the Senate considers legislation authorizing and appropriating funds for the Defense Department later this year.

Democratic sources said that could take the form of an amendment seeking to impose a flat ceiling on U.S. forces posted in Western Europe, or an effort to cut the military budget in a fashion that would require manpower reductions.

Mansfield would not discuss his strategy.

The issue may reach the Senate early in the summer, and it could lead to a clash between the Democratic hierarchy there and the administration, certain to oppose such legislation.

There are now some 310,000 American troops in Europe, about 230,000 dependents, and 14,000 civilian employees of the military.

Nixon Drops Part of Missile Plan

BOSTON (AP) — President Nixon informed Sen. Edward W. Brooke last Dec. 29 that he dropped a program designed to increase accuracy of the MIRV missile to allay Soviet fears, the Boston Globe reported in Thursday's editions.

The newspaper said the decision was taken on grounds "that improved accuracy might give the Russians the impression the United States was preparing a first strike against the Soviet Union."

MIRV is an acronym for multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicle. It involves a concept of one missile with more than one warhead, each aimed at a different target.

The Globe, quoting a spokesman for the Massachusetts Republican, said Brooke intends to take the Senate floor Thursday to command the President for "undertaking a major measure of strategic restraint." Brooke has opposed deployment of MIRVs.

Postal Reform Hearing by Senate Group

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a generally favorable reception before a House committee, President Nixon's postal reform legislation faced a hotter political climate today in hearings before the Senate Post Office Committee.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., committee chairman, lashed out Wednesday at Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for what McGee called "unfortunate, incorrect and divisively partisan" remarks in connection with the bill.

Agnew last week told a Republican audience congressional Democrats had stalled final action on the Nixon administration's plan for an independent U.S. postal service.

"The Vice President, in his partisan remarks, has introduced a divisive note into what has been a nonpartisan, pragmatic attempt to deal with the very real problems facing the Post Office Department," McGee said in a statement.

In testimony Wednesday before the House Post Office Committee, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, when asked about Agnew's remarks, said the postal service plan is bipartisan. He said former President Lyndon B. Johnson also backed a postal corporation plan.

As the population keeps increasing, the nature of our food invariably changes.

"With more and more people being added to our population every year, with thousands leaving the farm and crowding into urban centers, with at least a third of our women working outside the home, plus a steadily rising demand for convenience items, the nature of our food becomes more complex and the need for additives essential," observes Samuel A. Goldblith.

Samuel A. Goldblith

Goldblith, Ph.D., professor of food science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

But with the accelerated interest in "consumerism," many people fear the use of all additives in food, believing them to be harmful.

"No, that is far from the truth," says Dr. Goldblith, who is also a member of several committees of the National Academy of Science. "Take salt. That is an additive. Too much can be harmful. But common sense usually prevents it."

The current fear of monosodium glutamate (MSG for short) was caused by the report of the Chinese restaurant syndrome, described as a tightening of face and neck muscles and sometimes a headache.

"Actually, MSG is a salt of glutamic acid, one of the 20 or more amino acids that make up protein. It is used to bring out flavors in food, has been popular in China for thousands of years, in the United States for many. Manufacturers use it in a large assortment of products. Homemakers use it more and more. But is it harmful?"

"Too much of it, probably. But, again, common sense and sanity, not hysteria, must control its use. In infant foods, it is probably not needed. For adults, well, I think its use by manufacturers, a controlled use, might be far safer than unrestricted use by home cooks."

Cake mixes that need only liquid added are typical of modern convenience foods. But they also contain additives.

"Unless women want to return to making all their own cakes, they must accept emulsifiers and antioxidants in these mixes. Additives, yes. Emulsifiers are made from egg whites, lecithin, for example, and prevent the fat in the products from separating. Antioxidants, BHT for one example, prevent the mix from turning rancid. Used with intelligent restraint, these additives enhance value and flavor. Banish their use and we must return to the old-fashioned days of do-it-yourself. In these rushing times, however, that is unthinkable.

"Freeze-dried foods are perfectly safe. There are no additives used. Also, microwave cooking is just another form of heat. No additives here, either."

Goldblith warns today's women against hysteria over modern changes in food compositions. A highly trained technologist, a survivor of the Bataan Death March in the Philippines, this scientist faces the question of additives with profound knowledge and steady calmness.

"Additives in our basic foods are needed to bring them up to modern requirements. That is a fact we must accept unless we are willing to return to customs of long ago. Yes, I believe that the good outweighs the bad. When additives are used with restraint and intelligence, there is a tremendous margin for safety," he says.

He believes the Food and Drug Administration needs more money to do an adequate job.

Thinks Earth

in Trouble

on Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air pollution will trigger a catastrophic warming of the earth within 200 years unless man checks his plunge toward an overpopulated, industrialized planet, a government weather scientist said today.

The release of increasing quantities of carbon dioxide and thermal pollution into the atmosphere threatens to change global weather and melt the Antarctic ice cap, flooding wide areas, Dr. J. Murray Mitchell Jr. said.

He said man may begin to notice the change by the end of this century.

Mitchell, giving his forecast of pollution dangers in an interview outlining remarks planned for delivery at the American Geophysical Union's annual meeting, said such perils could come even if man learns to control air pollution caused by small dust particles in industrial smoke.

A meteorologist at the Environmental Science Services Administration—ESSA—Mitchell said carbon dioxide and thermal pollution produces a "greenhouse" atmospheric effect, tending to keep the earth's absorbed solar heat from radiating back into space.

Thermal pollution comes from waste heat from conventional or nuclear power plants. Carbon dioxide is produced from burning of petroleum products, including gasoline.

Mitchell said nature, in as yet unknown ways, is responsible for a one degree warming trend in the Northern Hemisphere between 1880 and 1940 and a one-half degree cooling trend since that time.

The old complaint that Northerners just don't understand the South is given credence in Chicago by the manufacturers of a product called Instant Grits. What's next? Instant collard greens? — Atlanta (Ga.) Journal and Constitution.

Fortune And Folly

If that Scarsdale, N.Y., hippie really wants to make people happy by giving away his 26-million-dollar inheritance, it is too bad somebody didn't get to him to tell him how to really beat "the system" he seems to despise.

Had he invested the 26 million at 6 per cent interest, he would have received about 1.5 million a year to give away in the same way he is dispensing his capital now. If he should live to age 60, he then would have given away about 60 million instead of only 26 million, and he still would have had the original capital to give away after death.

Man, he ought to get with it. — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

What could be an awkward question for some people is posed in a recent issue of the Anglican Digest: "If you were on trial for being a Christian, would there be enough evidence to convict you?" — Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier

Observance of Law Day Planned Here

In observance of Law Day, U.S.A., KXAR will devote five one hour periods to discussion of the law and its meaning in history and in today's life. Attorneys and law enforcement officers will appear on the program to provide information and take calls from the public on the issues discussed. The program was arranged by Larry Patterson, president of Hempstead County Bar Association and is as follows:

Monday, April 27—Judge John L. Wilson, City Judge.

Tuesday, April 28—John Robert Graves, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney.

Wednesday, April 29—James H. Pilkinton, former chancery judge, will review history of bar association.

Thursday, April 30—Capt. Milton Mosier, Arkansas State Police, discussing Law Enforcement Today.

Friday, May 1—Larry Patterson with a special message to parents of the Hope Area.

You are encouraged to listen and participate by calling 5533 on the KXAR News phone from 6:00 to 7:00 p.m. daily.

Southeast Asia's situation has become so incredibly tangled that practically nobody can be confident of coming out ahead and practically everybody is in some kind of trouble.

The spillover of fighting from Vietnam into Laos and Cambodia, along with other developments, has created headaches for the United States, the Soviet Union, Red China, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Thailand, the Philippines and others in the area, not to mention the Indochina regimes themselves.

Swine Program Gives Supplemental Income

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller late Wednesday dedicated the Rosston Feeder Pig Project in the gymnasium of Oak Grove High School before a crowd estimated at 500 or more.

Although scheduled for 4:30 o'clock the dedication was delayed nearly two hours by the governor's late arrival. Rockefeller flew into Hope airport, drove to south Nevada county, and immediately after the dedication returned here and flew to Crosssett for a night engagement.

The Rosston Feeder-Pig Project is a co-operative effort of the Oak Grove school, whose students will run it, the Office of Economic Opportunity, and individual citizens. The project will give families of the predominantly Negro Oak Grove community a supplemental income as well as providing agricultural students training in swine production.

Rockefeller drew a laugh from the gymnasium crowd when, upon being asked to autograph a 22 by 24 poster illustrating hogs, he quipped: "This is a heck of a think to ask a cattleman to autograph!"

The governor told his audience: "I am delighted that under OEO and through the cooperation of rural communities, we have found new ways to enrich the lives of people. What you are doing here and what you are dedicating tonight is outstanding."

"This to me is the beginning of a number of projects under Sonny's able leadership," the governor said, referring to State OEO director Sonny Walker, who introduced Rockefeller.

"I hope this project grows and grows and leads to other projects that will increase rural income more than in the past," Rockefeller added.

Walker, noting that Rockefeller had a "full day," commented: "It is my pleasure as a young black Arkansan to know Winthrop Rockefeller, and to know him is to respect him."

Master of ceremonies was David Sneed, director of emergency food and medical service, Southwest Arkansas Development Council.

Invocation was by the Rev. Hoyett Baughn, pastor First Baptist church, Rosston.

Warm, Muggy Weather Over State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The warm muggy conditions reported in Arkansas today will be relieved as a frontal system moves into the state tonight and Friday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau is predicting rain and thunderstorms spreading southward over most of the state today and tonight. By late tonight the trend will be clear skies and cooler temperatures.

Lows tonight will be in the 40s in the north and 50s in the south.

Highs: Wednesday ranged from 83 at Pine Bluff, Texarkana and El Dorado to 78 at Fayetteville, Harrison and Jonesboro.

39 School Districts to Talk It Over

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Representatives of the 39 school districts the Justice Department says have failed to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act are to meet today with officials of the Justice Department and the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Federal officials requested the meeting, said Education Commissioner A. W. Ford. He said he notified the districts of the arrangement.

Ford said federal officials would probably use the meeting to explain what sort of compliance they expect from the districts.

There will be a slow pitch softball tournament at Bradley May 1-3 and the first 12 teams to enter will be accepted. . . for details contact Okay Byrd at Logan Seed Co., or telephone 894-3770. . . entry deadline is April 27, 1970.

Five Hope Hi-Light staff members and their sponsor will attend.

Draft Job Deferrals Are Dropped

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon ordered today an end to future deferrals for occupational or agricultural activities and for fatherhood.

He also asked Congress for authority to end future student deferrals.

Today's order and the order he pledged to issue if he is granted authority would not affect the deferrals now held by students, fathers, and workers or such deferrals granted under applications now pending.

Nixon asked Congress to permit the draft to be run on a nationwide basis with a single national call by lottery numbers. This would replace the present system of local calls by individual draft boards which need not call exactly the same numbers at any one time.

At the same time, Nixon en- See DRAFT JOB (on page two)

6 More U.S. Planes Are Shot Down

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Six more American planes and helicopters have been shot down on bombing and reconnaissance missions over Laos and along the Laotian and Cambodian borders, increasing the toll for the past two days to 12 U.S. aircraft, the U.S. Command announced today.

Two Americans were killed, one is missing and 10 were wounded in the four planes and two helicopters downed Tuesday and Wednesday the command said.

This raised to 6,689 the number of U.S. aircraft the American command has reported lost since Jan. 1, 1961.

The costliest loss was a twin-engine Air Force EC47, a spy plane equipped with electronic snooping gear that was shot down Wednesday near the A Shau Valley in the northwest corner of South Vietnam. Two of the crew were killed and six were injured.

Two of the planes were hit in Laos. One was an Air Force F4 Phantom on a bombing mission over north central Laos. The two crewmen nursed the crippled craft almost back to their base at Udorn, Thailand, but ejected about 14 miles from the runway. They were picked up unhurt.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands also issued their weekly casualty summary.

Game Warden, Hill Case Being Heard

In Hempstead Circuit Court Wednesday a jury awarded C. D. Hunter $8,100 for land taken for Interstate 30. This represents the amount the Arkansas Highway Department appraised prior to suit.

The court, with Judge W.H. Arnold III presiding, was scheduled to hear an assault case Thursday. The case is styled State vs. Tom Hill, Eli Hill and George Hill. All are charged with assaulting an officer. The case involves Game Warden Ab Mormon of Nevada County who shot George Hill in the arm during a scuffle in the Missouri River bottoms above McCaskill earlier this year. Mormon alleged he caught the trio hunting deer at night.

At a meeting Wednesday the Arkansas Highway Department accepted an alternate plan developed by a local group for connecting Highways 4, 29 and 67 with the Interstate 30 interchange north of Hope.

Although the proposed plan has been accepted by Hope's Board of Directors the next step will be a resolution approving it by the city for presentation to the Arkansas Highway Commission.

Jerry Winer, member of the special committee that Mayor Frank Douglas named to offer the plan, presided over yesterday's meet. Besides the committee members, City Board of Directors, Highway Engineers were present.

The alternate route was drawn up because of massive objection to the original route on Edgewood that cut through heavily populated areas.

The alternate route is east of the old route and crosses the Missouri Pacific Railway just west of the Hope Brick Works, then veers eastward through largely undeveloped areas to Highway 67 west of the Tol-E-Tex Oil Co. South of Highway 67 the route goes almost straight through undeveloped areas to 23rd street. However, it was emphasized that the immediate need was the I-30 and Highway 67 connection and that extension south of Highway 67 would be several years away.

Hope Board of Directors are expected to approve a resolution adopting the plan soon. All groups at the meeting were eager to get the first phase of the project in motion with other phases to follow as soon as possible.

The City of Hope will have to acquire the right-of-way, a recommended 100 feet. Highway Department Engineers will survey the route.
